Committee Proposes Powerful TV Channel For D. C. Education

• A GREAT MOVEMENT is afoot here in Washington to establish a non-commercial educational T.V. channel.

The Federal Communications Commission allotted an ultra-high frequency channel to Washington, one of the 242 cities used for educational purposes in the U.S.

Realizing the value of this opportunity for educational TV in the nation's capital, President Cloyd H. Marvin took dent Cloyd H. Marvin took the lead in calling together interested people to form a temporary committee for exploring possibilities: Would people be interested in the project? Who would undertake the responsibility of carrying out the programs? How would they be financed? These were only a few of the problems facing the newly formed Washington Committee on Educational TV.

During the five months in which the committee has studied plans puring the five months in which the committee has studied plans for the best possible use of the station, there has been a great spirit of cooperation among the representatives. Then, a day or so before the Thursday meeting at Lisner Auditorium, the District Board of Education publicly announced that it had filed an application for a licence for exclusive control of Channel 26.

Beating around the bush at first, the committee praised the Board for its "initiative" in taking this bold step. However, criticism was not long in coming. Dean Martin A. Mason of the University School of Engineering, the University's representative on the committee, expressed his disapproval of the Board's action, saying that in doing this they had all but destroyed the previous cooperative spirit of the committee. At present, the Board of Education is the only applicator for the license to use the channel. Under FCC regulations, the Board must work together with the committee, but the question stands: Will they cooperate in the future if they have not done so in the past?

The financial aspect also presents a problem, but several ideas have been proposed: a non-profit corporation could be formed, supported by various citizens' groups and agencies. Congress might appropriate $100,000 (although this could result in "government control" of the project, suggested several speakers); one speaker thought that a $100,000 appropriation from Congress would not be enough, and proposed the formation of a programming corporation by interested educational and cultural organizations to supply an additional $200,000.

Still another proposal was that every TV set owner in the area might contribute $1 a year, as there are more than 300,000 people in the District with TV

Poll Has Double Purpose
Conducted annually for the past five years, the survey has a double purpose. Besides providing The Hatchet staff with a guide to student interest, it offers journalism students a chance to study first hand the methods involved in surveys conducted by metropolitan dailies.

Homecoming Story Tops List In Hatchet Readership Poll; Features, 'Foggy' Rank High

• STUDENTS USE THE Hatchet as a signboard of coming events, it was discovered as a result of the annual readership survey conthe annual readership survey conducted recently by journalism students. The survey, made by classes of Dr. Elbridge Colby, executive officer of the Journalism Department, was based on the October 14 issue. The highest readership was on the front-page story announcing the Homecoming

Dance.

According to Dr. Colby, these results show that The Hatchet still is doing a good job on one of its major functions—to promote campus activities. Just how well this is being done can be shown by the outcome of a previous survey, in which a front-page story on the University Chapel, with only 17 per cent readership, still tripled attendance at the services.

Foggy Bottom Well Read Foggy Bottom Well Read Feature stories also stayed high on the list with "Foggy Bottom" first and "We Predict," a new sports feautre, second. "On Other Campuses" maintained its usual high average and "Job Jots" had a high average and "Job Jots" had a record 32 per cent readership for an inside item.

Advertisements also gained wide attention, and for the first time, cigarette advertisements were outranked by two other national ads.

Dr. Colby said that the poll served to confirm the fact that very few people read the entire paper, the least notice being given to the articles on the inside pages.

Position on the page was also shown to have a great effect on readership. The practice of reading from left to right seems to be the major factor in this because lead articles placed in the upper left-hand corner were read most, followed by stories in the middle of the page and then those in the lower right-hand corner. Places in the lower left-hand spaces often had readership values as low as nine per cent.

College Daze

• THE APPEAL of this University to potential college students is sadly overlooked. College Day, which has been held for several years for Washington High School students, is being handled in a slipshod manner so as to discourage the enrollment of students in the University.

In the past, College Day has been held in the spring after many students have already applied to and been accepted in other Washington or out-of-town colleges. The stress has been on the academic aspect of college. students have attended one hour sessions, speaking to professors from the various schools who could advise them about their chosen curriculum. They then had dinner furnished by the University followed by entertainment. These past few years, high school students have been invited to the University plays, the Colonials Forum series and other scattered University events.

This year, College Day could be held on Saturday in the fall as an all day affair. In the past because the program was held in the spring, it was necessary to ask juniors from the high schools, thus bypassing the most immediate concern, the seniors. The early attempt should be made by the University to interest the graduating high school senior. He in turn, will be interested and en-thused, it is hoped, to go back to his own high school to sell his friends on our Uni-

The administration has suggested that in addition to the academic program, contests could be sponsored in the various departments to make students aware of extra curricular activities of the University. Also, student representatives from the University who have attended Washington schools should be recruited in an organization designed to send them back to their alma mater to talk about the merits of the University.

The committee planning this event should begin to make plans during the summer. This year they waited until Mr. John Toomey was appointed until they started to plan for the important event. Provisions to feed the students, if necessary at this all day outing, should be made by the University. The plan-ning Committee, lacking f unds, recom-mended that visitors pay for their own meal. This amounts to rudeness displayed by the University acting as host. The Student Council should discuss the program to decide immediately upon a plan of action so that steps can be taken to insure an early well planned program this semester, perhaps in the month of December.

So the function of College Day program, whether academic or extracurricular or both, should be definitely stated. The importance should be definitely stated. The importance of attracting students should be felt more keenly than it has been in the past. If enrollment is to increase, and high school standards maintained for the University, a full program this fall should be planned which will attract students to the University.

TEP's Hell's A Poppin' Pours On the Hot Coals; Squirts Punish Women

- THE TAU EPSILON Phi's at the U. of Massachusetts had a hot time at their last party. So hot, in fact, that they had to call the local fire eaters. The volunteers, arriving with their sharp little axes and usual glee, were greeted by a househigh devil and the announcement that this was the annual TEP Hell Dance. But inside, verily, there was a miniature inferno which the firemen put out by dint of much chopping and spraying. The dance continued. We know not the thoughts of the Amherst fire department. But were we a coed at Mass., we would think twice, and perhaps again, about going to a TEP, let's say, Back to Nature Party
- SCUTTLEBUTT at the U. of Kansas has it that Chancellor F. D. Murphy may be the nation's first Secretary of Health and Welfare. Why? "He's (sic) a sunflower from the sunflower state."
- Said the Spider to the Fly • DISPLAY AD IN Columbia Daily Spectator: "Male subjects wanted... for psychology experiment. $2.00 paid for one session lasting one and a half hours. Come in person to room 353 Schermerhorn, "DO NOT PHONE." We have no comments on this, but many, many murky thoughts.
- THE "BIG RED" kinda faded this year but how about a song for Cayuga and Kazmaier? The song of the Classes like this, Oh, there is the freshman who sits over there, He was nursed by his mother before he came here; He misses his bottle, and sad for to tell, He soon will be busted right out of Cornell. Chorus: Oh, it's one, two and three, four, we all in line, To the tune of our prof's we will always keep time, For it's work like a Turk will your eyes ache like hell, In this grand institution, this school of Cornell. Oh, there sits the soph'-more, with debonair look, His vile freshman ways he now has forsook; He sports 'round the town with the boys of his age, And makes frequent calls on the coeds at Sage. Chorus: Oh, there is the junior, he's smoking his pipe, His mood mellows out over lager and tripe; He knows about Zinck's and the others full well, He's not been a-wasting his time at Cornell. Chorus: Oh, we are the seniors, a-taking our ease, We cut recitations whenever we please; We go to the theatre and cut quite a swell. For soon we'll be leaving this school of Cornell. Chorus.
- HOW'S THAT AGAIN DEP'T-From MIT Tech's movie column, "Tom Ewell and Vanessa Brown in 'The Seven Year Itch,' a romantic comedy." Oh, quite!

Beware of Greeks Bearing Gifts

- ANCIENT TROY was linked with its modern namesake, the University of Southern Cal, when a Trojan stone column was dedicated and erected somewhere on the campus. A USC Acacian (a Greek! Ah, the Fates are laughing today) dreamed up the idea. Man! what that sun does to Californians. About four years ago, an alum group was seriously talking about building a wall around the whole bloomin' campus. But, back to the concrete,—the Trojans apparently are still adhering to "Never look a gift horse in the belly."
- WATER FIGHTS and bowling with bottles marked the end of wine and women for Wheeler Hall, one of the dormitories at Dartmouth College. The dormitory residents will be put on probation (or is it prohibition?) for the rest of the semester. And what pray tell does this mean? . . . "no late permission for female guests of dormitory residents, and no liquor allowed in the dorm." They're really cracking down, eh? We at Strong had better watch our step. A couple more of those riotous knitting bees, and, the next thing ya know, they'll lock up the Coke machine. And so to bed . . .

CU Revives The Alchemist

by Lowell Swortzell

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY is currently presenting Ben Jonson's "The Alchemist," first performed in 1610. Their production is so lively, so noisy, and so colorful, that one would scarcely suspect it to be so old. They have vitaminized the script with youthful and exuberant performers whose fast pace sometimes makes them seem more like members of a track team than actors. Almost from the minute the curtain is up until the end, they race around the stage, throw each other about, run up and down stairs, and play every imaginable trick upon each other. And this—believe it or not—helps make the evening a delightful experience.

The play tells of Face, an unscrupulous servant, who, with the aid of Subtle and Doll Common, sets up an alchemy shop while his master is out of London. They clean the pockets of everyone who comes seeking their advice and services. And what a varied lot of Elizabethans this is! There is a dapper clerk by the name of Dapper, a tobaccoman called Drugger, a selfish knight named Sir Epicure Mammon, and the pious Puritan, Tribulation Wholesome. As you see, these are Jonson's familiar "humour" characters, each unbalanced by the idiosyncrasy his name indicates. Jonson used them to poke both seriously and nonsensically intended fun at his superstitious fellowman who was victimized by the Ifth Century alchemy racket.

Play Rolls Downhill

Play Rolls Downhill

Play Rolls Downhill

Jonson starts his play at a high pitch, and it rolls along quickly enough, but because the action consists largely of a series of similar interwoven intrigues, it soon rolls downhill, and monotony overtakes the final portion. Face says in the closing speech, "My part a little fell in this last scene." So, indeed, does the entire play.

Director Leo Brady has visioned all sorts of mayhem and clever chicanery for his actors. He has superimposed a pantomimic plot of the thieves stealing from each other that is sheer comic genius, And his inspiration for business is taken directly from the text. For instance, he has Subtle take a nip of an alcoholic beverage as Face, describing his work as an alchemist, says "He's busy with his spirits." Mr. Brady and Mr. Jonson get along together splendidly despite the centuries.

Cast Commended

Cast Commended

Dick Sykes as Face stages a welcome come-back at C. U. Otto Kvapii, Frances Sternhagen who really knows how to manipulate a farthingale, Joseph Plummer; William Cain, a former G. W. actor; Terrence Spencer; and John Toland are all excellent even if some of the large cast isn't quite up to the usual C. U. standard.

'Dutch' Slotemaker

by Mary Louise Bishop

"YOU MEAN I'VE really found you?" It wasn't a very good beginning for an interview, but Maria "Dutch" Slotemaker de Bruine is not easy to find, and I had almost given up.
"Dutch" is a Physical Education major here on a United States student visa. At present she is living with Dr. and Mrs. William C. Johnstone, Dr. Johnstone was formerly dean of the University Junior college and is now a State Department official. Maria's family is living in Capetown, South Africa. Her father is the Netherlands' Counsel General there.

Born in Indonesia

Born in Indonesia

Born in Indonesia

She was born in Indonesia while her father was Director of the Indonesian Press. She attended the Paul Kreuger Elementary School. In 1938 she went to live in the Netherlands, but in 1941 the Slotemakers came to America when Mr. Slotemaker was invited to set up a Netherlands Information Service in New York City. They lived in Connecticut, and "Dutch" went to the Thomas School in Norwalk.

In January, 1948, her father was appointed the Netherlands Cultural and Press Counselor and the family came to Washington. For her last year and a half of high school, "Dutch" attended the Sidwell Friends School.

Maria wants to be a physiotherapist. She is seriously considering leaving the University and joining her parents in Capetown next February. "I can finish my senior year in the University of Cape-town," she says. After that, she plans to take spe-cialized training at Johannesburg where there is a "very good school."

Has Many Hobbies

One of her hobbies is the riding and training of horses. When she lived in Connecticut, she rode in many shows, winning trophies and ribbons galore. She hasn't been able to do much riding in Washington, though.

You may have seen this tall, willowy blond in the Co-op. She is working there now. For two summers she had a job at Children's Hospital. Tha job helped her decide to become a physiotherapist. In the summer of 1956 she worked at Silver Base on Lake George in New York. Religious and economic conferences with up to 1000 people would stay for three or four days. In August, vacation guests were admitted. Two hundred and fifty college students worked there to maintain the camp. We may lose "Dutch" in February but she says she likes Washington very much. Let's all hope she decides to do her physiotherapy here.

Now back to the few pieces of news gathered this week, Looked in the basket and found a piece of "jivey" copy. The "scratcher" "psst'd" that maybe I wouldn't "dig" the "stuff" but that it would "be real gone" for a "change of rhythm" in the weekly "info-slot."  THERE'S PLENTY of heat-generating activity in Lisner Auditorium these cold November evenings. Anyone walking into the auditorium might very well have the feeling that he was at a star-spangled circus.

On closer inspection, however, he'd discover that he was watching the 16 universitycommunity cast members of "The Merchant of Yonkers"

go through their madcap

Presiding over this three-ring circus is Bill Callahan, director of the production. Frequently, he stops rehearsal to point out to the cast that "you've got to speak up, kids. Otherwise, you'll never be heard beyond the first five rows. Sure, those people have paid, but so have the guys and gals who sit way up there." He gestures toward the last row of the Orchestra Circle, "Now, let's try it again—and make sure I hear every word."

After three hours of this rehear-sal-marathon, cast, crew, and di-rector sit down for a bull-session. Notes are given, questions an-swered, new ideas tried out, and rehearsal schedules planned.

an Alien Land Law controversy:
The plaintiff is an alien ineligible for American citizenship. He has been in this country for 40 years and for the last 15 years has worked as a gardener in the State of New Eldorado. His employer, wanting to reward him for good and faithful service, delivered to him a deed of gift, duly recorded for a 487 acre farm. Before taking possession of the land the district attorney informed the plaintiff that the land had escheated to the state in accordance with the existing Alien Land Law. This law forbids any alien ineligible for citizenship from owning real property. The plaintiff sued for declaratory judgment to determine the validity of this law, contending it violated the United Nations. Charter and the 14th amendment. Trial court gave judgment for the defendant (state). The Circuit Charter and the 14th amendment. Trial court gave judgment for the defendant (state). The Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the trial court on the ground that the United Nations Charter was a treaty which conflicted with the state law, therefore the lesser (state law) must fall. The Supreme Court of the United States granted certiorari and this case is to be argued before that court.

Following the kickoff, Bucknell fumbled on its own 22 and John Prach was on the ball for the Buff. Five plays later, Ciemniecki plunged over from the one and Dick Gasperi added the last of his three extra points.

So completely did the Colonials dominate the fourth quarter, they finished the game with the ball in their possession on the Orange and Blue's three-yard line, with first and goal to go. This last drive began when the Colonials took a Bucknell punt, and with the help of a clipping penalty, put the ball in play on the Bucknell 27. It took GW nine plays to drive to the three, where the gun saved Bucknell from a three-touchdown defeat. As is, it was the Bison's second loss in their touchdown defeat. As is, it was the Bison's second loss in their last 20 games the VPI game. One of his punts went out on the Bucknell three-yard line.

The Colonial passing attack still is more of a hindrance than a help. In a desperation move, Coach Bo Sherman started Valdesirni in place of Fox, but the Colonials still completed only two of seven passes all night. It was a night in which the offense failed to click, but the defense, playing alert ball, stopped Bucknell's attack cold.

Not even the famous "Touchdown Twins" of Bucknell, Brad Myers and Bert Talmadge, could seem to get going, and the losers were held to 159 yards rushing.

SN, DTD Triumph; Near 'Mural Titles

THE UNIVERSITY HATCHET, Tuesday, November 11, 1955.

• WITH ONLY THREE more playing dates left in the regular season, SN and DTD seem to be well on their way to the playoffs on December 7. SN beat their number one contender, SAE, while DTD triumphed over SX, their chief contender, a week before. With Herb Fhey passing and Dick Herr on the receiving end, SN presents one of the strongest and most well-balanced teams in the league. SN has scored 68 points while allowing their op-ponents none in their four winning games. In League B DTD has given away 12 points in scoring 50 in the same number of games.

Phi Alpha

Dan Leviton threw from his one-yard line to Marvin Rosenblatt for the first score of the game. Later Leviton passed to Bert Epstein for a second TD, but it took a Leviton to Hal Mesirow pass to add the extra point which won the game from SX 13-12. TD Rosenblatt, Epstein, EP Mesirow, Bill Evans threw to Jay Howard for a DTD score in the first quarter. The only other score of the game came when Fred Warder intercepted a PhiSK pass and took off for the goal line with some fancy broken field running. ## Last-Period Buff Surge Colonial Of Swamps Bucknell, 21-7 The Week

by Ed Jaffee

WITH A BIG assist from an alert defense, the Colonials scored twice in the last period to defeat Bucknell's Bisons, 21-7, last Fri-day night at Griffith Stadium.

The other Buff tally came early The other Buff tally came early in the second quarter, and all three scores were the outgrowth of sparkling defensive play. End Jim England blocked a Bucknell punt and Guard Gutt scooped it up and raced four yards for the first touchdown, about two minutes after the start of the quarter. The score remained 7-0 at the balf

Then, midway in the third period, Hugo Valdesirri's short pass was intercepted by Bucknellian Paul Ganz. Just as he was being tackled, Ganz lateraled to Bob

Dee, who sidestepped three wouldbe tacklers and raced 47 yards down the left sideline to tie the

Bucknell Fades

But the Bisons faded in the final But the Bisons faded in the final 15 minutes, and the Colonial defense set up two more GW scores. Freshman Lou Donofrio, outstanding as a defensive halfback all night, intercepted a Bucknell pass on his own 46 and followed his interference all the way to the Bison 20. Bino Barreira and the rejuvenated Len Ciemniecki then took turns carrying the ball and on five plays moved it to the one, from where Quarterback Ray Fox sneaked over for what proved Fox sneaked over for what proved to be the winning score

• FOR THE FIRST time this year, the HATCHET sports staff is choosing two players as Colonials of the Week.

Our selections, based on their sterling play against Bucknell last Friday night, are defensive half-back Lou Donofrio and halfback Len Ciemniecki.

Donofrio, freshman from West Orange, New Jersey, sparked the GW defense to its finest effort of the season. He personally accounted for both of the intercepted passes made by the Colonials, recovered an important fumble, made several tackles of the type that make coaches drool, and in that make coaches drool, and in general made life miserable for the Bucknell offense. On a night when the whole Colonial defenwhen the whole Colonial defensive unit was playing standout ball, big Lou was perhaps the best ballplayer on the lot.

On the offensive side, Ciemniecki was the sparkplug for a faltering Colonial eleven. Although his rushing average was not sensational, he was always able to gain the necessary short yardage for first downs, and actually seemed to be faster at the end of the game than at the start. end of the game than at the start. This could possibly be because his leg, injured two weeks ago, was still a little rusty at the start of the Bucknell game.

But whether his leg was injured or not, Len's spirit and drive were just what the doctor ordered—for the Colonials,

Win Would Assure Buff of Best Record In Postwar Action

 GEORGE WASHINGTON battles the oft-tamed Wildcats of Davidson in its final home game of the season at Griffith Stadium, Friday evening at 8:15.

By virtue of their convincing triumph over Bucknell and their creditable league record, the Colonials are regarded as distinct favorites for the first time this season. Contributing to that forecast is a Davidson team that has been mangled by three opponents who fell be-fore the Buff, and that has been victorious in but two of seven con-tests.

Davidson, which finished in 16th place in the 17-team Southern loop in both of the last two seasons, is in its familiar near-cellar role. The Wildcats seem to be showing some improvement, how-ever, as the season progresses.

The Wildcats were victims of one-sided losses to Virginia Tech, Washington & Lee and North Carolina State in their first three games. They hit the winning trail on Oct. 17 when they squeaked by an obscure Presbyterian Col-lege team 13 to 12.

The following week, Davidson was edged out by a usually hapless Furman aggregation. A much-improved Harvard defeated the Wildcats by slightly more than a touchdown in a free-scoring en-gagement at Cambridge two weeks

Trampled Over Next GW Foe Sophomore halfback Jimmy Thacker ripped through a de-fenseless Richmond eleven, GW

fenseless Richmond eleven, GWopponent next week, for four touchdowns to pace the Wildcats to a smashing 38 to 19 triumph last Saturday.

The Davidson offense is built around Thacker's dynamic running from a halfback spot in the Tformation. Last year the 5'8", 160pound star from Rome, Georgia galloped for 437 yards in 80 carries. He was rated as one of the top freshman finds in the SC last fall, and is regarded as a possibility for all-SC honors this year.
